

Fantasy Leagues are fun – but weekly contests are where the money is made...

When it comes to Fantasy Football, Beast Dome is a hidden gem. Last season, I stumbled across some Beast advice on a site that compiles “expert” opinions and I was intrigued by his thoughts and position on strategies.

After bouncing some emails back and forth with Munts, I joined the VIP program mid-season to get help with moving my fantasy team upwards. Munts spends an incredible amount of time not only researching his rankings, but also with the VIP members answering questions and offering advice for hours. This never ceases to amaze me.

Because of his unique strategies, I have found that by simply using his rankings to determine my weekly lineup, I stay solidly in the top of my leagues – winning 2 out of 3 leagues last season. When I have the occasional waiver or trade question, he has a multitude of chat opportunities throughout the week that make it easy to get the answers I need to help me decide.

So - the Fantasy league lineups are easy, fast, and Munts is damn good at it...

But during the NFL season last year it turned to so much more.....

While leagues are a ton of fun for me with some having a payout at the end of the season – the weekly salary cap games are where Munts and I KILLED it last season.

And, in typical Beast Dome fashion, he makes it incredibly easy. I send him the VIP membership fee for this service and he sends me the players to select in the salary cap draft each week and I decide which contests to enter on any Daily Fantasy site – I don’t bother with the qualifiers; I just enter the Daily contests and watch the Beast Dome magic bring in the $$!

Last year, I won an incredible 86.7% of contests entered with the lineups provided by Munts – and we are currently on a 9 game win streak!

My only regret is that I didn’t start sooner in the season...
